

I am opposed to permitting the use of power lines to carry broadband signals. Power lines are not sufficiently designed or controlled in all areas to prevent the radiation of RF signals at power levels that will severely impact users of licensed and unlicensed services.

I'm sure it can be made to work perfectly in a lab, but very few power lines are installed entirely in labs.